Screen Australia releases Research and Publication Partnership Guidelines

Friday 30 July 2010: Screen Australia today called for proposals from experienced and innovative researchers and publishers for its Research and Publication Partnership Program.

Projects funded through the Research and Publication Partnership Program will build knowledge about, and audiences for, contemporary Australian screen content through the development and publication of high-quality information, insight and analysis. They will also align with Screen Australia's goals to grow demand for Australian content and support the development of a more sustainable Australian screen industry.

Up to $150,000 will be made available for this program in 2011. Proposals must be submitted by 10 September 2010. Funding will be available from 1 January 2011 depending on the proposal.

More information about eligibility requirements and the application process is available at www.screenaustralia.gov.au/ResearchPubs
